SURPRISE IN RACQUETS FINAL.

NEW YORK RETAINS CHAMPION-SHIP FOR THE SECOND YEAR.

Payne Whitney Wins From Q. A. Chaw, Jr., in a Mateb Marked by Brilliant Service —Bostonian Takes the First Game -Many Clubmen in the tighteries.

Boston did not regain the racquet championship, after all. In the final yesterday at the New York Racquet and Tennis Club, the home player, Payne Whitney, put cut in brilliant style Q. A. Shaw, Jr., the Bostonian, by 3 games to 1, and kept the title in this city. Shaw held it in 1901, and last year, Clarence H. Mackey, playing for the New Fork Club, this year, but he watched the final Elackay, playing for the New York Club, won it from him at Boston. The latter did not play this year, but he watched the final round and joined in the cheers for his club-mate. Whitney, although he has been at the courts since his Harvard days, had not gained the credit of being quite in the class with Shaw, but he forced a higher rating from the gallery critics and in fact they were so surprised that they are gasping yet.

Put as a betting proposition the odds were to 1 on Shaw before the start and write your own ticket after the Bostocian took the first game. There was a spell of silence when Whitney was pronounced the winner, as though the clubmen could not realize what they had seen and heard, followed by great applause. In serving Whitney had the better of the match throughout, sending a ball that came back from just above the service line as a shot from a gun and very low, so that if not taken it gave little chance from the back wall. Both players were in the plink of condition, but Whitney seemed the harder in fiesh and was the fresher at the end.

The steep-pitched galleries held a representative gathering that included J. M. Hartshorne, Amory G. Hodges, Albert Gould Jennings, H. K. Knapp, William Laimbeer, G. H. Mairs H. P. Shaw then scored by service, but lost his hand in the next rally, the return hitting the floor before the wall. Whitney did not count and Shaw gained an ace before being put out, the score being 3-2. Shaw squared the score, 4-4 and, after Whitney had made it 5-4 on a rally, the Bostonian came in and gained the lead by good work in railies, the tally being 7-5. It was the last time Shaw was to be ahead, for, after alternating hands without counts, Whitney gained an sce after a rally and then five more by service, making the score 11-7 in the New Yorker's favor. Shaw's hand netted him three aces, when he was retired with the count 11-19, and Whitney won out, getting three of the aces on service.

Secretary Jackson of the Atlantic Yacht Club has issued a report of the annual meeting of the club and details of the three ocean rooss which are to be sailed this summer for which Commodore Robert E. Tod has offered prizes. This report also says:

On account of the success in and the interest aroused by the restricted-class events last season, the small boats will be given prominent place in this year's programme. These classes will include the 18, 21, 25 and 30 footers, respectively. It has practically been decided to sail at least nine races in each class, and, to be eligible for prize, seach yacht must start in at least five events of its respective class.

"The retiring regatta committee reported that during last season 248 yachts started in the regular fifteen-slub events, and that among the prizes given were 139 Corinthian crew pins offered to all amateurs sailing on winning yachts for the first race won. For each succeeding race won bars were given, and in all 284 were awarded.

"Two steamers have been chartered for the season of 1903 for use of the members of the Atlantic Yacht Club and the residents of Sea Gate, and it is expected that these steamers will make the trip from New York to Sea Gate in forty-five to fifty minutes. The boats will run from May 1 to Nov 1. Time tables will be issued later. A night boat will leave the Sea Gate dock for New York every evening at about 9:30 o'clock.

STORMY TIME FOR BOWLERS. President Bookwalter Scents Danger for the Congress in Loaded Ball Dispute.

Indianapous, Ind., Feb. 21.—Mayor Charles A. Bookwalter, president of the American Bowling Congress, in an official statement to-day predicted that unless the congress is freed from the influences of the manufacturers and the loaded ball fight is manufacturers and the loaded ball light is settled amicably, dissolution of the congress will result. He said.

"My year as president of the A. B. C. has convinced me that bowling as a sport and the bowling congress as a national organization of the bowlers will lose many of its most enthusiastic followers if commercialism constitutions and dominate and the amendment of the second constitutions and the second constitutions and the second constitutions and the second constitutions and the second constitutions are second constitutions. of the bowlers will lose many of its most enthusiastic followers if commercialism continues to dominate and the amateur side of the sport is not preserved. But the chief danger to the sport and to the congress lies in the petty jealousies between the East and the West. The East prides itself on being in the game for the sport's sake. The Eastern bowlers say the men of the West are largely professionals. That is not true. My observation convinces me that men east of the Alleghanies are just as eager to bowl for money as the men west. I think that the congress heat week will provide a limit for the weight of balls that may be used in tournaments hereafter. Then the future will depend on whether the men that swing the loaded balls are more closely wedded to the heavy ball than to the congress. If they are willing to give up the loaded ball for the congress cannot survive. Recent despatches say the bowlers of Wisconsin. Iowa and Minnesota will bolt the congress unless Milwaukee gets the 1904 tournament. A man who says in advance that unless you play his way he will not play at all shows a streak of yellow. We of the great Northwest pride, ourselves on our gamebess, so I will not believe until there is positive proof that the delegates from those States are an element of danger. The East and the West should meet in a give-and-take spirit and settle the loaded ball question. If they do not I see only a choppy course ahead for the bowling congress and I fear she will pound herself to pieces next week on the rocks of dissension.

CHARLES C. LLOY D'S BLACK TROT. TER PROVES FAST ON THE SNOW.

After Many Successes He Scores to a Till With Kingwood—E. E. Smathers Cleans

Up the Pacing Division With Amek's -Three Victories for Fred Proctor. Charles C. Lloyd and his black trecter dalzour, 2:15%, beaded the winning division change in temperature had made the fosting as steady as a clock and he has never show 2.17%. On at least two opensions Kingwood has trotted a public quarter mile when the judges hung out 29% seconds and Mr. Coleman let it be known at once yesterday that nothing would please him better than a tilt with Mr. Lloyd and his black winner.

The clip was a merry one from the first stride and the soft snow flew in showers. Kingwood had all the speed that has made him noted as a sprinter but Malzour had fully as much. Head and head the two horses came down through the crowd over more than half the journey and then King-wood made a break that cost him all chance f winning.
The veteran Peter Manee, behind the chestnut trotter Ambrose, opened the afternoon sports in a tilt with the chestnut trotter David B., 2004. driven by J. W. Cornish. David B. was under full speed when he ranged alongside Ambrose and the latter made a break before he got fully on his stride. When he recovered his balance Ambrose trotted very fast and he finished on even terms with David the upper stretch with the brown trotter

Mc. Vor. 2:28. driven by Mr. Rendall, and Mr. Manee drove to victory.

E. E. Smathers behind the black pacer Amokin, 2:11%, made a general cleaning up in the pacing division and in addition beat every trotter he met. The chestnut pacer Shorty, 2:11%, was the first to finish behind Amokin, but it was only a short tilt, for Shorty did not like the soft footing and he would not stay on a pace. There was a quartet of good ones in the next brush. Amokin, the chestnut pacer Crescent, driven by George McBride: the bay trotter Vance G. driven by George Speer, and Shorty, and the finish

The chestnut pacer Delsea, 2:21 %, driven by William Virtue, and the pacer Crescent had several lively brushes, with the honors about even. Delses won the first heat in a rapid finish, but she was unsteady in the about even. Deissa won the first heat in a rapid finish, but she was unsteady in the second and Crescent beat her. Then Mr Leesent the pacer Thornton to make it three-cornered, and Crescent beat him and then beat him again single-handed. Then Thornton evened up matters by finishing in front of the trotter Kingwood, 2:17% driven by George A. Coleman.

The three trotters, Vance G., driven by George Spear; Sir Electroid, 2:28% with W. F. Steele at the reins, and Salient, ably handled by A. B. Gwathmey, gave a pretty race. It was still a very open question as to which would win, when ten lengths from the finish Salient jumped from her stride and Electroid followed her example in the next instant. This left Vance G an easy winner. That good trotter Fred Proc.or, 2:17%, was only started in three brushess and he made it three straight wins. The best brush he won was against the bay trotter Conner. 2:18% driven by Mr. Morris. Conner had been practically invincible during the afternoon, but Fred Proctor beat him decisively. Fred Proctor also won from the bay trotter Sir Richard, driven by Mr. Berry, and he closed his winning programme in a spirited tilt with the chestnut pacing mare My Lady. The busy white pacer Tom Reed, driven by David McNeice, was at all times prominent. His first brush was one of the best of the afternoon, for he met his persistent rival the chestnut pacer Thornton, with Mr. Lee at the reins, and it was nip and tuck as usual. The finish in the final was so close that the crowd seemed about evenly divided as to which had won. Later, Tom Reed finished in front of the bay trotter Conner, driven by Mr. Morris, and he also won from the bay trotter Sir Richard, ably handled by Mr. Morris, and he also won from the bay trotter on the persistent contestants of the sternoon were H.
